The Midland Railway page is something of a problem as it was only thinly addressed in Steam Locomotive Development where it was observed that the Railway was centred on Derby from which routes radiated to the south west, north west, to the Scottish Border, to the east and to London. At that time the only book which appeared to be relevant was Hamilton Ellis' Midland Railway. The North Eastern Locomotive Preservation Group (NELPG) exists to foster interest in, and to preserve examples of, steam locomotives, rolling stock and other items of railway interest connected with the North East of England.
